Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca, Morocco

The Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca, Morocco—with its bilingual capability in French and Spanish—is a pivotal location for European companies seeking to reduce costs, maintain quality and increase flexibility through nearshore IT solutions.

Morocco is historically known to offer a stable economic and political environment that is conducive for business, especially in Casablanca, the dominant industrial and service sector. The government's recent effort to fortify the nation's education system has also produced a burgeoning source of IT graduates from Morocco's international, engineering and computer science schools.

First established in 2004, the Delivery Center in Casablanca offers cost-effective systems integration, application development and application maintenance services to a growing group of clients. In 2008, the Delivery Center in Casablanca became fully integrated with the Accenture Global Delivery Network—a network comprising approximately 80,000 highly skilled professionals, working at more than 50 delivery centers throughout Asia, Europe, Africa and the Americas.

Morocco: An expanding source for IT resources and industry specialization

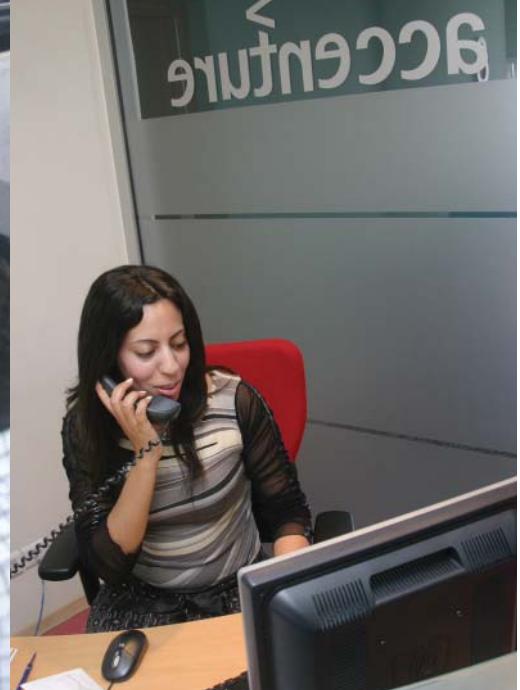

Proximity to Europe, and especially Morocco's native French-speaking population and our Spanish-educated professionals, makes the Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca an attractive option for organizations in the Mediterranean region. Multinationals wishing to diversify their talent base or serve emerging markets in Africa will find the delivery center equally beneficial.

Many regional companies also leverage Accenture's Retail and Resources industry solutions, which are supported by the professionals at the Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca. These solutions require a deep knowledge of industry conditions as well as applicable technology for in-store and on-site applications.

The professionals at the Delivery Center in Casablanca are trained in the Accenture Delivery Suite for Outsourcing—a standardized, yet flexible framework of methods, tools, architectures and metrics distilled from Accenture's global knowledge, experience and capabilities. This industrialized approach provides repeatable and predictable delivery methods, introduces process measurement and reduces risk.

The Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca is physically housed in the city's business district. However, because the headcount has increased from when it first opened, the Delivery Center is soon to move to a new facility in Casanearshore, a high-tech commercial campus that is situated close by the current facility. Conveniently located near the airport, most major European cities are within two-and-one-half hours or less in flight time. The Delivery Center in Casablanca also operates in a parallel time zone to Europe, making it more convenient for clients to interact with the center during normal business hours.

Advanced technology, connectivity and controlled access security allow the professionals at the Delivery Center in Casablanca to seamlessly deliver IT services to a range of clients. Chief among these clients are a Moroccan-based telecommunications service provider and several of the world's largest retailers.

Currently, for example, the Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca supplies Web and J2EE development for El Corte Ingles—for both the retailer's corporate website as well as its main department store application.

As proven at this long-time retail client, the Accenture Delivery Center in Casablanca provides a powerful combination of deep IT skills and industry specialization to help companies achieve high performance.
