Delivering High Velocity Mission Support with Accenture Enterprise Services for Defence

High performing defence agencies depend on effective, efficient enterprise resource planning.

Especially in a climate of constrained budgets and rapidly changing operational tempo.

But even when change is desirable, building the right ERP solution is often expensive, complicated, and time consuming.

Yet without the right ERP solution, personnel must focus on back-office needs rather than enabling mission outcomes efficiently and effectively.

Accenture Enterprise Services for Defence can help deliver the right ERP solution for your agency.

We can transform your enterprise mission support functions - including finance, logistics, procurement and human resources – quickly, effectively, and with flexibility. Here's how.

First, our process-led design helps you segment your strategic from standard business processes. The result? An emphasis on high value processes as well as new ways to reduce costs.

Second, we use pre-built components that combine industry-leading business processes with major ERP software solutions. Typically a large proportion of our clients' desired outcomes are delivered using these pre-built components, saving time and money.

Third, we can deliver this transformed ERP solution flexibly – in a traditional on-site configuration, in a private cloud managed by Accenture, or via software-as-a-service.

The end result can be an ERP implementation that is fast, high quality and with low complexity and low risk compared to other types of implementations.

It's a solution that is scalable; for example, to later add capabilities such as mobility or analytics.

And it allows for continuous improvement, to add new value and meet ever-changing demands.

All of these benefits come from our thirty-plus years of experience in defence and the public sector, from our deeply skilled experts, and from the tools, resources, and accelerators we've built in our work with clients.

We know the business of defence and how to deal with issues unique to your environment.

Change, efficiency, and transformation are possible. And they don't have to be costly, complicated, and time-consuming.

Let us show you how. At Accenture Enterprise Services for Defence.
