

High performance. Delivered.

My First Days:
Tyris Jones

Tyris Jones: I chose to work at Accenture after writing down all of the qualities that I was looking for in a company. One of the first things that stuck out to me about Accenture was that it believed in meeting goals for its customers but even more, it believed in exceeding those goals. The second is you can tell just by going to our website that there is buy in from leadership on diversity from the top all the way down and that was very clear. And the final thing is Accenture was the industry leader. And so with all of those things combined, it was very clear to me that Accenture was the best place for me to start my career.
