

EROS: JOURNEY TO CLOUD

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Eros: In my line of work, I hear the line “Let’s take it to the cloud” a lot of times. Many people simply mean, “upload to the internet.” For me, it means I have a mission. My job is to help companies move and operate in the cloud. This means ensuring a swift, secure and smooth transition of enterprise systems, applications and tools to be hosted in the cloud. So, it means it can be scalable and flexible.

It sounds simple, but it’s a complex journey of helping businesses navigate through the entire processes of planning, migrating and operating in a cloud landscape.

When I’m not at work, one of the things that I really make time for is basketball. You see, it is all about the execution, relentlessness, and teamwork. And these are the same principles I apply with my team, every single day. As a manager, it is my job to direct people to the right spots and position them to succeed. I share my perspective at work. It’s about growth, innovation, and personal development. I want to bring out the best in my team, and drive them to deliver excellent cloud solutions for our clients and achieve greater heights.

Accenture encourages us to be bold and daring in everything we do. We don’t have to wait for the next visionaries. We can be the game changers. You can be next. Change the game with the cloud.
