

WORK AT THE HEART OF CHANGE ACCENTURE INDUSTRY X

ANDRA HEGEDUS, INDUSTRY X CLUJ

If I would have to describe Accenture in a few words, those would be diversity, new cultures and collaboration.

First of all, as we are a global company, so people have the chance to grow in a diverse culture.

We are working at the heart of change, which in itself requires a growth mindset. Whether we are talking about a new technology, a new role, a new opportunity there is always something new to learn, always a new way to grow. You just have to be curious.

Whether we are creating value for our clients or our community, people always bring their best self forward.

Working in Accenture, for me is like a Spartan race competition where sometimes you need to struggle to jump over a fence, but then you have fun and at the end of the project you really feel that adrenaline and vibe and the good feeling that you accomplish something.

When you work at the heart of change, the main idea is to create a culture where people feel safe and where they feel constantly supported by colleagues and leaders. That is definitely something I feel at Accenture. In the end it's all about what and who you want to be, because the opportunities and the support will always be there.
