Learn

One word why I chose this company and this career is “learn”.

Throughout my career and my life, I’ve had an ongoing thirst and curiosity to learn. I enjoy learning about people and cultures, technologies and countries, and industries. I have been privileged work in different parts of the United States and with teams all around the globe.

I am fortunate to be able to connect in all five of Accenture businesses and I’ve learned how to collaborate and bring innovation to my clients who span Technology, and Content & Communication or Software and Platform industries.

My current role allows me to see every day ... our largest and most pioneering projects – that puts my learning to the test, because I must quickly understand, and innovate and solve problems in interesting ways.

Involvement in all of these aspects of my work has given me a chance to build friendships with peers and clients all over the world. We constantly connect and learn with one another. This is the place I chose ....so I could be challenged in a vibrant environment where I could learn and thrive.
