I am a very collaborative person, and I am a very kind centric person, and I care people very much, so I am very lucky that I have a CAL role so that I can work very closely with my clients, and I am also the Great China Human Capital and Diversity leads, so that I can help our people to grow in Accenture.

Liza Allen

I am a mother of three children. Here in Hong Kong, we got some wonderful clients with very challenging business problems. Every day we are able to deliver value with those clients, doing some of the most innovative working in the new, in digital, and in the areas which are most challenging for the business.

So I think my 2 strengths are being strategic and visionary, but also be a catalyst, helping people make things happen. Accenture has helped me recognize that, from very early on in my career, instead of asking me to do things that maybe I was not strong at, like looking at really deep down in detail, they put me in the roles I could bring ideation to birth, or I could connect the right people with my ideas and then create the right teams to help me make it happen for that I am very grateful.

Cora Yeung

I am very passionate about solving problems and helping others. And how that related to my strength is that I am very good at being persistent and make changes happen. And how Accenture let me make difference is that I always look at my strength and place me in teams where I can actually contribute and use my strength.

Rosie Hampson

A very diversity team, across different geographies, and even with our clients... We sat on their client side, so we get to interact with them daily and really deep in understand what motivates them and what they need, which is a quality that I want to develop in myself and also help other people to develop in themselves.

Nathalie Chan

My passion is to be the forces of change. I want to be the person who can possibly impact the society and I want to be part of that. And with Accenture, it really helps me. We always have to be at the forefront help clients solve problems, help solve society's problems. So Accenture helps me by always pitching me out of a comfort zone and make sure I am addressing those problems I could.

Kristel Wong

I think as a strategist, one of our greatest skills is to able to analyze problems from a macro perspective and also offer clients innovative solutions. I think Accenture really takes into account my interest and also how I would like to develop my career when they allocate me roles.
