

TECHNOLOGY

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

To me, technology is more than a tool, it's really a new way of working. I understand the underlying technologies, and also work with our clients to understand what's really important to them to address their business needs with the most elegant solution.

For example, I am helping a telecommunications company build a cutting edge platform to support a compelling customer experience. What I really love about this is that I'm at the forefront of developing new technologies and solving large, complex problems. The environment is extremely fast-paced, highly collaborative, and exciting.

Working in technology has allowed me to travel the world – I've worked on four continents and in multiple countries. What's interesting to me is how technology and culture fuse together: the culture of the client, the diversity of the people, and the mix of the technology. Every day, I work with people of varied backgrounds and they all bring something unique to the table. We draw on our diversity in very collaborative ways and that's why I came to truly appreciate how technology and culture interact to make change happen.

Because of technology, the world is different than it was just a few years ago. I thrive by embracing the exciting changes technology has to offer.

I thrive.
