Meet Jordan

Meet Jordan

I work with a hundred to a hundred and fifty students and we train them up in ministry and fine arts, so that they can become leaders, not just any arts but also in their communities. My heart for young people now is to make sure that they have a platform, a place to grow and a place to expand their gifts.

I take that from my students and bring it to work, from big ERP projects to complicated payroll projects. I work with different kinds of people to accomplish the same goal. I'm a student for life and I don't ever want that end and this is a great company that makes sure it doesn't have to.

Be yourself, make a difference.
