

JULZ: BE BOLD FOR CHANGE

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Fourteen years ago, when I decided to move to Manila from my home in Olongapo, I was faced with a scary prospect.

I'm an only child and just had a few months of work experience.

I didn't know it then but this decision to pursue a career in technology led me to where I needed to be.

My career at Accenture enabled me to go to places beyond my wildest imagination.

Accenture has been with me in every step of my journey towards home.

As I was starting in my career, I was asked to take an onshore account to the US.

Accenture helped me in this transition and my client was supportive.

They must like my performance because I was sent to the US four times.

It was a good thing that my husband was with me since the very beginning.

Meeting him at the company and working with him has its perks.

We both support each other and had the same opportunity to work onshore.

That experience strengthened our relationship.

Being newlyweds, we broke the norms of having traditional marriage roles.

My husband chose to stay home as I progressed in my onshore career.

When Cael was born prematurely, the help came in handy for the nth time.

From working at the backend, I experienced first-hand how our clients' members experience our service.

I have gone through a lot in my 14-year career.

The challenges and shifts in my life have taught me that change is inevitable.

It's better to embrace it and make it work in our favor.

I learned to be bold and not to be afraid of change.

I am also grateful that now I am home.