

MEET THE MINDS. JOSHUA KILONDA

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

My name is Joshua and I'm a consulting analyst at Accenture.

I'm an adaptive mind and I think this is really suited to the role that I do.

Our work varies so much from day to day, so that might be doing some strategy work one day, and then in a couple of months' time I might be on a new project helping to implement change management.

Outside of Accenture I'm really interested in African development. So there's something that I'm currently working on with some friends, is trying to set up a social enterprise where we help connect professionals in the African Diaspora to NGO's and social enterprises on the continent.

For me, this is an opportunity to directly use the skills that I'm developing as an analyst at Accenture and put this towards a cause that is close to my heart.
