

MEET THE MINDS. LAKHBIR GILL

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Hi, I'm Lakhbir Gill, but people call me Lakhi and I'm a first year apprentice.

I'm a reflective mind, which to me means taking what's already been done, seeing what went right and what went wrong.

University's been really good, when I started the apprenticeship, with all the support that I got from Accenture and generally the university. It just allowed the degree to really flow.

So the culture, to me, would be motivated, respectful and hard-working. Motivated and hard-working really comes hand-in-hand in the aspect of everyone is there to push you and everyone wants the best for you, regardless of background, who you are, where you come from, everyone is super respectful.

We do see each other outside of work, which is really good. We're given three charity days a year so they really do push us to do charity, get out the office, motivating you to keep going is a key thing that Accenture provides.
