

MEET THE MINDS. MOYIN APAPA

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Hi, I'm Moyin, and I'm a digital analyst at Accenture, and what that means is I help come up with innovative ways of solving problems.

Being an action-mind type helps me hit the ground running and get really stuck in and get really engaged.

How would my colleagues describe me? A little bit nerdy, I would say, probably the first one. Then, I guess the opposite of spontaneous. I'm a bit of a planner, and I guess happy-go-lucky, I'm up for anything really.

There's loads of training opportunities that I've actually been able to go on. The first was the analyst training when you start, but besides that I've done mental health, allied training, which was really incredible, and I've also done scrum training, so I am officially a professional scrum master, and I guess in general just the nature of the projects themselves because that's really the best way you learn.
