

MEET THE MINDS. OLUWATOMI AJAYI

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

My name is Oluwatomi Ajayi, but my friends and family call me Tomi.

I am an analyst, working with Accenture technologies.

When I'm not in the office I hang out with my friends, usually we prefer to stay in the house and listen to music and cook food.

Being reflective at work is especially very useful for me right now because I'm on a project where I deal with a lot of end-user experience, so I have to put myself in the shoes of the end-user.

My friends would describe me as friendly, dedicated and demanding because I take as much as I give.

What first attracted me to Accenture was the inclusion and diversity, there were so many people who looked like me, it looked like a really international organisation.
