

MEET THE MINDS. TOM EDWARDS

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

My name's Tom, I'm a consulting analyst within Accenture consulting.

I'd say having a collaborative mind type helps me to perform at work because I feel most motivated when I'm working with and around other people.

I helped to organise the two-week onboarding new joiner training for new consulting analysts that joined the company. I was fortunate enough to go to Madrid to do a one week training course. That was a really great opportunity to meet different people from across different countries who were in the same position as me but working for different clients in different countries.

One of my favourite aspects of working for Accenture is that there are so many different opportunities to meet new people. There's always someone within the practice or the project that you're working on who you can go and have a coffee with and catch up, regardless of their seniority, and that's great.

Everyone within Accenture is happy and willing to work together.