The anti-money-laundering and compliance landscapes have changed.

With 2.5 exabytes of data* being produced every day, monitoring and alerting capabilities are more important than ever in the stand against financial crime.

We’ve all heard the saying, ‘like searching for a needle in a haystack’, but now we’re searching through fields of haystacks.

So how can you more accurately identify money laundering risks? By harnessing the alliance of Accenture and Ripjar.

Our robust experience in the financial crime space, and advanced capabilities in digital transformation are amplified by the power of Artificial Intelligence.

All of this, combined with a powerful technology platform, allows us to bring you market leading solutions to assist you in countering the risks and vulnerabilities that external threats pose.

With watchlist management and adverse media screening, we identify Politically Exposed Persons and sanctioned individuals with greater accuracy, through identity resolution technology, natural language processing and continuous risk scoring.

With all this happening in real-time, the opportunities for your business could be dramatic.

Greater efficiency, improved cost structure and lower risk.

Real value at scale, with Accenture and RipJar.
