Power Your Purpose. Changing the way the world works and lives.

Ted: My military service taught me that contributing to something that's greater than oneself is a value that I carry forward into my personal and professional life.

Day of Service is the one day a year where Accenture professionals across the DC Metro area contribute their time, their energy and their skill sets to numerous non for profits. I chose Boulder Crest retreat because of the mission. This is a beautiful place, a safe space where veterans can come, reconnect with their families and put themselves on a path to wellness.

Josh: Warrior Path is the nation's first ever program designed to cultivate and facilitate post traumatic growth.

And it's an 18 month program that starts with an intensive 7 day initiation at one of our beautiful retreats. And to ensure that the benefits of the training the experience here are sustained for a lifetime, we partnered with Accenture to build My Path which is technology application designed to help them have support and accountability to set and track goals and to continue learning and growing.

Luvean: The studio got involved to really add on to and help supplement the text books and the worksheets.

We had about ten designers working on their personal time to design about 175 screens. They're using it a lot today. They've gotten really rave reviews from their users. Boulder Crest is really please with the application.

Josh: Accenture has been an amazing partner to Boulder Crest for many years in many different ways. And to see the purple shirts out yearly staining fences, mucking fields it's just a reminder to me of how powerful it can be to have a place where folks can serve those who've served us all.

Brad: As a fellow combat veteran, myself, I know first hand what combat can do to a veteran.
