

INCLUSION & DIVERSITY: LAUREN'S IDENTITY STORY

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Text on screen My ID minute. Lauren Pak.

Lauren [00:00:13] So, there's basically this really popular Korean TV show that's on right now, in Korea. It's something that I watch with my parents, at home but also, if I'm here, they'll wait a day to screen at the same time as me.

Lauren [00:00:26] So, I'm Korean-American. My parents came from Korea in the 1970s and I was born and raised in California. I think California is a really special place where there is a lot of diversity. So, I felt really lucky to have grown up in immigrant communities. My identity has definitely been impacted by the people in my life.
