Voices of Change is an event that brings together men and women to talk about and address the issue of getting to equal in the workplace.

We come together as corporate partners MTN, Nedbank, Accenture and Business Engage, which is an NPO, and we've come together to have conversations about 'How do we build women?', 'How do we get to equal with our women?', 'How do we deal with sexual harassment?', 'How do we tackle the issue of pay parity in the workplace?'

Getting to equal in the workplace is not just about women, it's not a female conversation, it's about how we work with our men and our women in the workplace to find the conversations that bring us together.

So, we are looking at tackling gender equality, which is a Sustainable Development Goal from the United Nations, but we know we can't have the conversations just as women so we're bringing our men along to say; as men and women, as corporate organisations, let us collaborate, work together and make sure we are getting to equal together whilst growing together.
