

COP26 – ACCENTURE CONSUMER GOODS & RETAIL RACE TO ZERO

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

- Narrator: Tomorrow, it's a word full of promise. Tomorrow, there is so much to gain, but only if we act today. We still have time to pledge and keep 1.5 centigrade alive. But only if today is the start of something new, a positive commitment to our environment. The Consumer Goods Forum and Accenture, in collaboration with the World Economic Forum's consumer industries, urge our industry to step up to the challenge, to go further and faster to half carbon emissions by 2030.
- Wai-Chan Chan: As of this moment, more than 40 CGF members representing some of the biggest consumer goods retailers and manufacturers on the planet have committed to cutting their emissions in half by 2030, and to reach net zero by 2050.
- Alan Jope: Performance and sustainability are not mutually exclusive. It's a dangerous thought to think that they are. It is not profit or purpose. We see purpose as a pathway to superior sustained profits.
- Paolo Lanzarotti: Working with each other, working with peers, working with competitors to make a better future is absolutely fundamental because no one player can do this on their own. We have to work together.
- Doug McMillon: The race to zero initiative needs all of us. It's the right thing to do for our planet. It's the right thing to do for our businesses long term. We need everyone on the same team.
- Ivan Menezes: We've already achieved so much together. By working together, we can accelerate the shift to a low carbon economy and create the action needed for a sustainable future.
- Doug McMillon: Join Walmart in the race to net zero.
- Paolo Lanzarotti: Join Asahi in the race to net zero.
