

BUILDING A BLOCKCHAIN NETWORK WITH ACCENTURE

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Building a blockchain network is much more complex than just building a project and where we believe we have an influence and can help is because we have relationships with many customers and their peers and can help to orchestrate those ecosystem relationships to really build and bring together the value across the blockchain ecosystem.

The benefits of blockchain are really about changing the way we share data with each other. So, in the old messaging construct of data moving back and forth, we are now going to a mutualized data store and that allows us to have trusted relationships with our clients to have securer data transfer and always know that the source of truth is active and accurate for our clients.

Accenture can be your trusted partner as we continue the journey with you and often we see over the life of our operations deals that we continue to bring innovation to you year after year so we are not just operating your business process, but continuing to bring you new and emerging technologies and how they can apply to you and help you adopt them in ways that are seamless to you so you continue to see additional value from our relationship year over year.
