So our clients are fully aware that there's tremendous value in their data and the data from their trade partners, But often it's stuck in silos and the challenge is how to use that data to drive insights at speed and at scale.

0:20

And that's what AI retail is all about.

0:22

It's an integrated data and AI platform built leveraging the best of Google technologies that accelerates that speed to value.

0:32

It comes out-of-the-box with 35 of the most common use cases across the value chain.

0:37

It's expendable.

0:38

We are looking at use cases from customer experience to merchandising and supply chain.

0:44

And so, whether you're a part of the IT function or the data function or responsible for a line of business, this solution helps your teams drive real transformation using data and AI.
