WHY TECH IN MANCHESTER? HARRIET'S STORY

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

My name's Harriet Fowler an Application Development Analyst working in the Manchester office.

It's thinking about our sales strategy and how we would formulate maybe bids and how we would shape our responses to those bids as well.

A few years ago, I was cabin crew for Emirates that was just a sort of gap year that lasted a little bit too long and came back and thought what do I want to do? And I knew that I wanted a challenge.

I got into doing some coding and then from that really caught the bug and just saw this opportunity to do a career changer and degree. So I started a Masters apprenticeship and it's honestly the best thing I've ever done. Everyday is a different challenge and we don't know what they could throw at you. You get to meet and sort of have exposure to like a lot of different people across the Accenture World.

There is some incredible companies in Manchester that I didn't even know about especially in the tech space and it just needs to be shouted about. And I'd say that if you are looking to maybe do that scene a more regional city, definitely get involved in networking because there are incredible opportunities there to do that. But there's definitely a lot more than you think on your doorstep.
