Accenture Cisco Collaboration
Solutions using unified communications technologies...from the boardroom to any room

Are you using collaboration technologies to change the way work gets done?

Increasing globalization, reduced travel budgets, legacy infrastructures and communications silos – they all make it harder for employees, business partners and customers to quickly find the resources they need. The results: reduced revenues, stifled innovation, slower time-to-market and a decreased quality of customer service. By helping you choose and integrate the right collaboration solutions using unified communications technologies for your unique business, we can help you conquer these challenges. Accenture Cisco Collaboration Solutions help you weave unified communications and collaboration technologies deeply into key business processes, popular applications and everyday activities to truly revolutionize how your teams get work done. That makes all the difference.

High performance. Delivered.

Enabling face-to-face collaboration without place-to-place travel

Accenture Cisco Collaboration Solutions help you design, develop and deploy immersive unified communications and collaboration technologies that include pervasive and process-driven collaboration.

Our collaboration solutions using a pervasive collaboration infrastructure includes a suite of innovative technologies that help clients quickly—in less than six weeks—and cost-effectively replicate the essence of in-person collaboration, helping reduce travel and increase productivity.

For example, Cisco TelePresence™, a virtual conferencing technology, connects your dispersed workforce as if in the same room; Accenture Interactive Whiteboard, a virtual white board tool, makes long distance work sessions much more interactive; and our expert locator tools help employees quickly find, and communicate with the right experts.

Our collaboration solutions based on process-driven collaboration provide comprehensive services that integrate unified communications and collaboration technologies deeply into your business processes, helping you create a collaborative ecosystem among the workforce, clients and partners. Collaboration solutions using unified communications and collaboration technologies can provide shortcuts and speed up approvals, enabling a quick turn around on projects by quickly harnessing the input of globally dispersed decision makers.

We understand that when unified communications and collaboration elements are smartly connected and effectively woven into a company's business processes, they fundamentally change how the organization does business. By restructuring work around collaboration to execute processes in a way not possible before, we can help your entire organization speed innovation and project delivery, allowing your team to make decisions faster and maintain a competitive edge.

Productivity and savings

The Accenture and Cisco Business Group offers clients collaboration solutions that can help organizations achieve measurable results, including:

- Lower operating and capital expenditures.
- Decrease travel expenses by an estimated 20 to 40 percent.
- Achieve estimated increases in productivity.
