Business Intelligence

Video Transcript

We have more information than ever before.

But with disconnected sources and users, big data still means little insight and that leads to missed opportunities.

Accenture and Avanade are using the latest business intelligence technologies from Microsoft to help you discover your most valuable data.

Get timely, breakthrough insights and deliver information with lightning-fast speed and stunning dashboard visualizations using SQL Server 2012.

For example, we deliver industry analytics solutions that bring together many sources of critical information into a single, centralized view for easy access.

Having up-to-date and historical data aggregated expands your ability to monitor operations, predict trends, and act decisively, saving you time and resources.

We give you the flexibility to dig into the data with self-service BI capability. Your teams can explore industry comparisons and vital key performance indicators for your business.

With our ability to deliver information on mobile devices, critical data is always accessible and timely.

It all adds up to better and faster decision-making.

We're connecting data sources to give you the complete story.

And delivering it with visuals and tools that help you 'get the big picture' at a glance or dive into the important details.

We can put you on the path toward turning big data into a huge strategic advantage.
