Accenture Upstream Production Operations Training for SAP

Accenture and SAP are working together to greatly enhance SAP solutions for Upstream Operations Management and Production Revenue Accounting with new solution functionalities and services.

In tandem with that effort, we are pleased to offer you Upstream Production Operations Training by Accenture for SAP.

Developed by experts and practitioners, Upstream Production Operations Training by Accenture for SAP is a one stop solution for upstream hydrocarbon and revenue accounting training needs.

This curriculum includes three SAP modules that are specific to the oil and gas upstream industry, namely Joint Venture Accounting or JVA, Production Revenue Accounting or PRA, and Upstream Operation Management or UOM.

Upstream Production Operations Training by Accenture for SAP helps new users build an understanding of core functionality and business rationale for key processes enabled through SAP. End-users can also bridge their current skills to the modules and functionalities being developed in UOM and PRA, and refresh their JVA knowledge. Advanced user training enables participants to hone their functional, configuration and troubleshooting skills.

We provide e-learning modules with content to meet a wide variety of users' needs including In-a-Day Introductions to business processes to a deep dive of system configuration for beginner to advanced levels. Our curriculum consists of more than 70 training modules and 300 hours of content.

With access to self-paced eLearning modules, classroom-based and virtual instructor led sessions, upstream employees can enhance their skills as SAP end-users, advanced users, and contractors. We also offer customized training to meet the specific needs of your company.

Participants can expect relevant information to review at their own pace. Managers can define specific training programs for individuals to help them attain the desired skills and competencies.

Participants' learning experience is reinforced with job aids and support material, along with a real-time environment for hands-on practice.

For any queries or information on upcoming sessions, please write to SAPTraining-Upstream@accenture.com.

So, are you ready to take your hydrocarbon and revenue accounting knowledge to the next level?

We welcome you to take the first step in the journey! Good luck, and we'll see you in training!
