Navitaire – it’s like adding winglets to your entire airline operation.

Achieve higher performance and profitability with Navitaire.
Something remarkable is happening behind the scenes at many of the world’s most successful airlines

Customers see it every day as they discover easier ways to book flights, cars, hotels and whatever else their dream vacations or business travel requires. Airline managers see it when operations run like clockwork no matter how many aircraft they fly. Airline executives see it when they operate profitably in an industry that can never take prosperity for granted.

What’s happening behind the scenes is Navitaire. We are the airline industry innovator in reservation, direct distribution, decision-support, revenue accounting, sales audits, operations management and recovery services. All products are offered as hosted services from world-class data centers on three continents. And we are part of Accenture, one of the world’s largest global management consulting, technology services and outsourcing firms. Since our start in 1993, our customer base has grown to include many of the world’s largest hybrid and low-cost carriers, including nearly all of the most successful start-ups of the last decade. Whether you fly a few or hundreds of aircraft, Navitaire’s integrated product suite delivers:

- New Skies®, the next-generation reservation and distribution system that offers you the greatest choice and proven cost-efficiency to increase profitability.
- The industry’s easy-to-use, yet highly sophisticated revenue management system.
- Greater operations efficiency and lower operational costs with the ability to plan, track and rapidly solve even the toughest operations and crew challenges.
- New insights into business operations via access to accurate, timely and comprehensive reservation, flight and revenue data.

That’s why Navitaire’s customer base has nearly tripled since 2001. Our customers know that what happens behind the scenes makes the difference between a successful airline and an also-ran.
Great airlines make their own rules. Navitaire helps make it possible.

Create competitive differentiation, streamline operations, innovate and break a few rules to become a high performance business.

That’s the recipe for success in today’s airline industry. Navitaire provides the tools that make it possible. And all of them are integrated into an easy-to-implement, hosted solution that’s been field-tested for years by dozens of the world’s leading airlines.

Integration, quick deployment and scalability are the hallmarks of Navitaire’s success in helping its customers succeed — from new airline entrants to long-established players. Integration in the sense that Navitaire offers a single comprehensive solution that includes reservations, revenue management, operations and revenue accounting for airlines of any size. And scalability that allows airlines to grow at their own pace by leveraging our world-class, fully redundant data centers in the United States, Europe and Asia. An integrated view of your business

From planning to execution, Navitaire provides the technology that increases your flexibility and improves your business operations. Technology that lets you streamline, innovate and win market share.

Navitaire’s integrated offerings deliver real value by combining booking, financial, operational and customer data into a consolidated database that gives you a truly comprehensive view of your business.

Why is this important? Because you want to know more than just the number of passengers on a flight — you also want to know how much revenue they represent to your business. And you want to create or update one set of flight schedules for passenger bookings, as well as crew and aircraft scheduling, rather than repeat the schedule-entry process three times. With Navitaire, there is no need to pull information together from multiple database silos. We know you need cost-effective systems that empower customers, reduce redundancies, eliminate errors, optimize staffing, streamline training and provide instant information. That’s the power Navitaire’s integrated suite delivers.
