Today’s digitally-enabled, patient outcome-based world, with more specialized drugs, demands very different commercial models than the salesforce dominated models that were prevalent during the blockbuster era. As the industry shifts to become more outcomes and value-focused, companies are transforming their customer strategies, commercial operating models and capabilities.

Our Intelligent Commercial Solutions practice takes an insight-driven approach to providing comprehensive, end-to-end, digitally-enabled services from strategy through operations to help our clients transform their commercial models and achieve the 'quadruple aim'.

Improved patient care

Lowered per capita costs

Improved population health

Improved financial performance
We help our clients rethink commercial strategies to improve the patient experience, create high-impact customer interactions and drive better outcomes. By working across the entire enterprise and broader healthcare ecosystem, we help our clients bring their products and services to market around the world faster, more effectively and often at a lower cost. We have:

- Enabled over 100,000 sales reps and medical science liaisons to deliver a targeted customer experience.
- Enabled improved brand performance by 2–5% at 140+ top brands.
- Digitally enabled 50+ brands around the world.
- Helped improve patient care for more than 20,000 patients.
- Delivered between 15–30% cost savings in marketing at 6 of the top 10 pharmaceutical companies.

Boston Scientific and Accenture designed this digital health platform to help providers standardize care, reduce overall length of stay and lower admission rates. The Care Pathway Transformation program is designed to enable healthcare professionals and patients to have more informed relationships, leading to better health outcomes and lower costs for health systems. Together, we are addressing an acute industry need for some of the most costly chronic conditions.

- Mike Mahoney, President and Chief Executive Officer, Boston Scientific

Right now we’re in the enviable position of potentially launching 10 new products over the next 5 years. In the past that would have put a tremendous pressure on our resources, but by including digital as part of our overall business strategy, and by choosing strong strategic partners like Accenture, we are finding ways to become more efficient, nimble and freeing up the resources we need to focus on delivering these medicines for patients.

- Kevin Guerette, Executive Director, Global Commercial Operations, AstraZeneca
