It’s really important that we can share information between agencies, public sector and private sector, and do so at the speed at which the threat is evolving in real time. And I believe the government has a key role to play in creating this interface between organizations and facilitating that information exchange.