KHEIRA BOULHILA

My name is Kheira Boulhila. I am managing director within Accenture in Communications, Media and Technology, and I'm leading the digital activities for Gallia.

I'm fully convinced that diversity brings a lot in a company. Diversity in terms of gender is key. Having more women working at the senior position level is key.

What I noticed is that in front of us at our clients, there are more and more women at the key position, and we have at Accenture also to follow this. And I'm convinced that bringing diversity, different point of view, is really key to be successful in our business today.

“La chance sourit aux audacieux.”: It means that chance smiles to people who try new things and who want to take risks. And this is key to really be authentic; take risks, and nothing is impossible.
