MEET KATIE

I was born here in the US and then when I was about four we moved to Cairo, Egypt and I lived there for about fourteen years, it was an incredible experience. During the air of spring we actually had to leave Egypt and I had to move to the US and that was a, a big change for me and I needed a new hobby to learn and so I thought the ukulele would be something fun.

Technology and music I think can unite people because it's the one commonality no matter what language you speak or where you're from or what your background is.

With the people that I work with, because we all come from different places, technology brings us together and it's like the one thing that we can focus on to help deliver the product that our client needs.

My client is a publishing and media company and we help them gather and analyze their business problems and then we help implement those in to the new systems that we're creating for them. There was also one unified financial system that we're helping implement.

I like that we're always striving toward new technology and I feel that we really innovative. Diversity and technology are really important and I think that's something that Accenture is focused on and really wants to achieve.

My name is Katie and I'm a Business Integration Architect.
