Every client is different and they all have a unique set of challenges, problems that they need to solve for, so it’s not one thing that we go in to do.

You have to be kind of a generalist, strategist, able to solve multiple problems, think creatively, use critical thinking skills to deliver solutions.

My name is Matt Canada, I’m a Technology Strategy Manager at Accenture

So, one of the things that I’ve been passionate about outside of the office is competing in fitness competitions. I’m always up for a challenge, I’m always looking for something new and new ways to challenge myself and this was a way that seemed it would be a fun passion to pursue.

It requires vision and discipline and focus to see it through from start to finish and that is what we experience every day at Accenture. We’ll do an assessment we’ll come up with a list of initiatives and we’ll create a roadmap to execute these initiatives over the next three to five years.

So, it’s looking at how technology supports the business strategy, how it enables growth or how it increases efficiency across the organization. It requires a lot of flexibility, a lot of patience.
